By special agreement with ODNR Division of Wildlife, hunting is permitted at Baldwin Woods Preserve and Cricket Frog Cove for small game and deer, under specific guidelines subject to annual changes. Hunting is used as a land management tool while providing recreation to the public. This program will be reviewed annually to determine if it is appropriate to continue, or if changes are needed for the following year. Hunters enter the property at their own risk. Some hazards such as deep animal holes, tree roots, barbed wire fencing, piles of debris, and fallen trees can be found throughout park properties. Caution should be exercised.

Fall Prescribed Burns

Please Note: During prescribed fire season (September-December), hunters permitted to an area may be notified the evening before a prescribed fire and must remain out of the prescribed fire area until the fire activities have ended. Once notified of the completion of fire activities, the hunters will be permitted into the area.

The exact dates of prescribed fire activity are dependent on weather conditions. Very specific weather parameters must be met before conducting a successful prescribed fire, making it very difficult to plan fire dates in advance.

Ecological prescribed fires are an efficient and effective method to reduce woody growth, maintain open areas, and enhance wildlife habitat. It is also great for nutrient recycling and can increase stability and seed production of many native plants. It is proven to be essential in effectively restoring oak woodlands.

Any questions on the prescribed fire season may be directed to Adrien Lowien, Stewardship Department, 419-575-7339.

All Park District Rules and Regulations, Ohio Revised Code laws, and ODNR 2019-2020 Hunting Regulations will be enforced.

NOTE: Park District Officers and ODNR Wildlife Officers make frequent inspections of the property to check permits. The Park District reserves the right to deny any application for just cause. The applicant may appeal the denial to the Board of Park Commissioners. All appeals must be in writing.
